HARVEST STRENGTHENS ITS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE WITH THE ARRIVAL OF NICOLAS OBOLENSKY, GROUP CHIEF PRODUCT OFFICER, TO ACCELERATE ITS PRODUCT STRATEGY IN FRANCE AND EUROPE

HARVEST is delighted to announce the arrival of Nicolas Obolensky as Group Chief Product Officer. He joins the Executive Committee with the mission of accelerating the evolution of the group's pan-European product strategy in support of the Conquer New Frontiers strategic plan, building on HARVEST's DNA and strengths: listening to customers and providing increasingly useful, intuitive and value-creating solutions for its customers.

Against a backdrop of transformation in the wealth management sector, HARVEST firmly believes that technological performance is only worthwhile if it genuinely simplifies the daily lives of professionals: reinventing the customer experience by continuing to develop its solutions with and for its customers, taking into account their uses, needs and operational challenges, as well as regulatory and security requirements. This appointment is part of the group's controlled and sustainable growth strategy.

It is this vision that Nicolas Obolensky brings to the European stage: concrete innovation, built with our teams and in constant proximity to its clients.

An engineer from Grenoble INP and an INSEAD MBA graduate, Nicolas Obolensky has developed over 20 years of recognised expertise in product strategy in demanding technological environments, notably at Bloomberg, eFront and Finance Active.

Beyond his career path, it is his energy, his sense of community and his conviction that the product is above all a story of listening and concrete impact that will make the difference.

"I am very pleased to welcome Nicolas Obolensky to the Executive Committee. His arrival marks a key milestone in the execution of our Conquer New Frontiers strategic plan. His product expertise, international vision and commitment to customer centricity are major assets that will accelerate our growth momentum and our pan-European software offering," said Virginie Fauvel, CEO of HARVEST.

"I am delighted to be joining Harvest, a group renowned for the quality of its solutions, the depth of its business expertise and the close relationships it maintains with its customers. My priority will be to further enhance the value delivered to users by building innovative, consistent and scalable offerings, while preserving the DNA and operational excellence that are Harvest's strengths," said Nicolas Obolensky, Chief Product Officer at HARVEST.
